

5th Grade Home Reading Log

Nov. 28 – Dec. 4

Monday 11/28	Title _____ Author _____ Author's Viewpoint/Tone: How does the writer feel about the characters and events? Why do you think that? What kinds of descriptions of the characters or events does the writer use that tells you that?	Reading Minutes
Tuesday 11/29	Title _____ Author _____ Whether it's a map of a room, a city, or a planet, maps tell us where we are, where we've been, and where we're going! Use a page in your notebook to show all the locations where your reading takes place. Use creative thinking to figure out how to represent all of the settings on one page. Provide as many details from your reading as possible.	Reading Minutes
Wednesday 11/30	Title _____ Author _____ Stamps commemorate famous people, historical figures, inventions, nature, and even cartoon characters! Design a stamp to commemorate someone or something from your reading. Create a thoughtful, colorful design that promotes a person, action, or idea that you feel deserves attention. Make your stamp eye-catching so that people will want to buy it!	Reading Minutes
Thursday 12/1	Title _____ Author _____ When you write a thank-you note, it's nice to tell the person how his or her gift or kindness was helpful to you. Based on your reading, think of something that your main character might be thankful for. Then create the thank-you note in your notebook as if it were from that character!	Reading Minutes
Friday 12/2	Title _____ Author _____ Good thinkers look for situations similar to the one that they're in. Think of three significant situations that occurred in your reading. Write each one of them in a "THIS" box on the left side of your page. Next, think of situations from your own life that are similar and write them in the "THAT" boxes on the right side of the page.	Reading Minutes
Weekend 12/3-4	Title _____ Author _____ Does a picture really say a thousand words? Imagine that you were present during an event described in your reading assignment. If you had a camera, what pictures might you have captured? Select a picture and draw it below. Include as many details as you can and write a caption at the bottom!	Reading Minutes